STOLEN JEWELS ARE RETURNED IN MAI

"Haul" of Monday Night Received in Parcel Post By Owner.

A parcel post package containing $134 worth of jewelry was delivered yester-day at the home of Alfred French, 2712 Cathedral avenue. The valuables were part of the loot taken when Mr. French's residence was broken into Monday night and $200 in cash and $550 In watches, rings, and plus stolen.

This, together with the fact that $500 worth of Jewelry taken Sunday night from the residence of W. C. Whipple, $752 Northampton street northwest, was also returned, lead the police to believe they are pitted against an unusually clever thief.

clever thief.

The jewelry returned to Mr. French was wrapped in newspaper and ordinary wrapping paper. When the house was ransacked several receipts were taken, and one of these, which gave Mr. French's name and address, was pasted on the parcel post package in lieu of an address. In this way the thief avoided giving any clue through handwriting to his identity.

The package contained practically all handwriting to his identity.

The package contained practically all of the jewelry in the haul which might later be identified, with one exception, which is a crescent of graduated diamonds. Although this pin bore the name of Mrs. French, it was not returned.

Among the articles sent back by the thief were: A gold and coral bracelet, valued at $25; three gold pencils, valued at $15; a ladies' gold watch and chain, valued at $50; a gold hunting case watch marked "M," valued at $25; a gold breastpin, valued at $12; a silver pin, valued at $2, and a round gold breast-pin valued at $5.

Together with other unmarked jewelry the thief retained $200 in cash.
